

ESCALATIONUNIT CHAOS ENGINE

grave machinecore from germany

escalationunit chaos engine:

ESCALATIONUNIT CHAOS ENGINE, settled in the Hessen/Germany, exists for approx. 10 years and is composed of 6 band members. EUCE had with their first larger success in the year 2006. Beside several compilation contributes, they are working together with the New Yorker independent record label CORDIAL RECORDS.

They released their fourth CD "MACHINES NEVER DIE" in summer 2007, just in time to prelude their first USA mini tour. Among others they played shows in New York and Boston.

symbionts:

Henric Steuermagel: lead vocals & guitar
Frank Schöpke: bass
Sebastian Lauermann: fx & backing vocals
Sergej Köhn: percussion
Christoph Kipper: drums
Sascha Abt: guitar

escalations:

In the meantime, the EUCE can go back to 5 years of stage experience, which made the name EUCE popular in their area. The title "Escalationunit" explains itself with a visit of one of their concerts. Except chaos warrior sanctifications by branding iron burns, they are celebrating chaos kamikaze rituals. Regularly the audience is exchanging their physical integrity for a shot of high proofed fuel and chaos kamikaze headbands to lunge into a suicidal moshpit battle immediately. Most EUCE shows are backed audio-visual by sound samples, crank siren, megaphone and video beamer.

output:

- 1998 World Demise (EP)
- 2002 Chaos Mutation (EP)
- 2004 The Worlds Last Days (full album)
- 2004 The Worlds Last Days decimated (EP)
- 2007 Machines Never Die EP

grave machinecore:

EUCE has its passion in the „grave machinecore“. A kind of Neo-Thrash-Metal-Core paired with percussion instruments. The singing sounds basically like a tough Hardcore style, partially falling into Death-Metal frequency areas, without despising melodies entirely. The sound characteristics of this music style can easily be described in a simple mathematical equation:

EUCE = RUDE METAL - KLIMM BIMM + A KILLING RAMBA ZAMBA
